LTHS Students Winning IDEAs

Three Lockport Township High School students recently participated and were given awards in the Illinois Drafting Educators Association's annual drafting and design contest.

IDEA students Frankie Onesto placed third in Machine CAD, and Gwendolen Chappell placed second in Introductory CAD. This is the first time since 2002 that LTHS has had two students place in the state competition.

Student Mark Beaumont participated in Introductory CAD.

This student-based contest is one of the largest competitions held in the United States and features some of the best and brightest drafting and design students Illinois has to offer. At the state level, about 200 students qualified and competed in eight different board and computer-aided drafting (CAD) competitions.

At the competition, the students were given a drawing problem to solve and design and draw in a specific time limit. The introductory CAD students also needed to complete a written exam, and both parts were factored into their score.
