LTHS Art Students Create a "Spooktacular" Day

Witches, bats and pumpkins, oh my! Lockport Township High School Art Club and National Art Honor Society students volunteered October 24 at the Lockport Park District's Halloween Festival at Dellwood Park.

Braving the cold, damp day, high school art students generated smiles on the faces of trick-or-treaters of all ages. Lauren Thomas and Deborah Neumayer, faculty sponsors of the two clubs, organized the face painting activity.

"I like volunteering for face-painting events with the high school because I'm able to use my artistic talents for a good purpose," junior student Jess Czuba said. Sophomore student Jenny Stasieluk agreed, "I was cold during the day, but seeing how enthusiastic the kids in their costumes are made my heart warm."

Providing a community service in the arts demonstrates to LTHS students the importance of sharing their talents and bringing joy to district families, according to the sponsors.
